

Zoltan Roka
Director
Procurement Center of Excellence Europe
Alcoa

Zoltan is a Director of the Procurement Center of Excellence group at Alcoa. He is responsible for the strategic direction, management, planning and operations for the area consists of Procurement Service Center, Accounts Payable, Professional Services, and Functional Support. He leads a large group of people, which provides services on 10 languages to 100+ locations in 14 countries in Europe and North America. Previously he held various Global and regional management positions in shared services, procurement and IT. His professional career reflects to 18 years experience including 14 years in multinational corporate environment. Zoltan holds a BA in Information Sciences and an MBA in Management and Finance.

Alcoa is the world's leading producer of primary and fabricated aluminum, as well as the world's largest miner of bauxite and refiner of alumina. In addition to inventing the modern-day aluminum industry, Alcoa innovation has been behind major milestones in the aerospace, automotive, packaging, building and construction, commercial transportation, consumer electronics and industrial markets over the past 120 years.